AGEING POTENTIAL

Vermentino is suited for early drinking and will retain fresh fruit characters for the next couple of years. It is made to be enjoyed while it is young and vibrant.

WINEMAKING

The initial stages of the 2016 ripening season were dry and warm. The harvest period was moderate following some refreshing rain. Harvest of this usually late ripening variety occurring on March 7. The grapes achieved flavour ripeness around their normal time and the mild temperatures allowed the development of a rich palate and fuller flavours, with the variety naturally retaining crisp acidity.

WINEMAKERS

Scott Zrna and Ben Tanzer.
